

Ocean Awareness Day

Bonding With Our Oceans in a Time of Changing Climate

Over the last year we have heard a lot in the media about our oceans and the impacts we are having on them from sea level rise, to acidification, to depletion of resources. But what does this all mean? Georgia Aquarium in partnership with Center for Ocean Sciences Education Excellence – Southeast (COSEE) is hosting a six hour educator workshop for middle & high school teachers to reinforce their background knowledge about ocean sciences and explore ocean scenarios associated with global climate change.

When: March 13th, 2010
8:00 am – 4:00 pm

Where: Georgia Aquarium

Registration Deadline is
